

Business Analyst, Meerbusch or Frankfurt (DE)

Collenda is a leading specialist provider of software and services for credit and receivables management. Our first-class applications and our commitment to professional and technical excellence set us apart. Bringing together the former businesses of ABIT (Germany), Eurosystems and Cwize (Netherlands), Collenda is a growing European company of over 200 people. We are proud of our reputation, built over 30 years, as a customer-oriented service provider. Today, more than 700 clients including banks and financial service providers, medium sized enterprises, utilities, and public-law institutions rely on Collenda.

Will you become our new Business Analyst (m/f/d)?

In your new position, you will analyse and design complex technical solutions. You will not be left on your own, but will develop solutions in an agile team.

What does the role involve?

- You analyse technical requirements and develop concepts and specifications for implementation within the products for which your team is responsible.
- You will support the creation and maintenance of technical and professional documents as well as the presentation of the products you are responsible for.
- You will support internal clients in solving problems and point out adequate alternative solutions.
- You normalize and optimize our customers' business processes.
- You will analyze data sets under the aspects of optimization, data quality and usage possibilities for Artificial Intelligence.

What do we ask from you?

Based on your studies in economics / mathematics or your professional experience in banking, you have a passion for analysing and structuring technical aspects. In addition to a certain IT affinity, your communication skills and openness will help you to establish your ideas across the board.

In addition, you will have some of the following knowledge and skills:

- Strong analytical and abstract skills as well as structured, independent and self-reliant working style
- Communication, conceptual and persuasive skills as well as a high level of customer and service orientation
- Very good written and spoken German and English skills
- Basic knowledge of data modeling and analysis
- Mathematical studies or affinity to mathematical problems

What we offer you?

You will become part of an agile, holocratic team of competent, committed and helpful colleagues with whom you will communicate openly. Varied tasks challenge you, while we enable you to quickly assume responsibility and be involved in projects. And the other factors are also right:

- High personal responsibility and plenty of room for manoeuvre
- Short decision paths due to flat hierarchies
- Long-term perspective in an established company on growth course
- Performance-related remuneration
- Flexible working hours
- Security through our sustainably established products and services as well as through our strong market position resulting from our cooperation as a service provider for large and professional organizations.
- A personal mentor will be at your side to help you familiarise yourself with the new team so that you can quickly become part of it and contribute your ideas and experience.

Do you choose for Collenda?

Choosing Collenda means working for a market leader in customer-centric and highly integrated credit and receivables solutions. Collenda offers the industry's most innovative, customized value propositions around front-to-back credit processes for the digital age. We have a large customer base across Europe varying from Banks, Insurers and Corporates to Public sector. Using the latest technology, Collenda Solutions are flexible, easy to deploy and can integrate with any system and scales across many languages.

Collenda is developing itself constantly. With a group of enthusiastic employees in Germany and the Netherlands, we value a positive and informal working atmosphere with sufficient room for personal development. We feel it is important that you can perform at your optimum, in a healthy and professional environment. To achieve this we offer excellent office facilities, maintain short lines of communication and focus on both individual and team development to maximize potential.
